“My spouse is cheating on me. I know it, but how do I prove it?”

Family law attorneys hear this from clients on almost a weekly basis. Because these issues can have criminal ramifications, colleagues practicing in that area of the law are often consulted. When you are confident that surveillance is needed to prove infidelity in a divorce case, or to assist in meeting your burden of proof in a protection from abuse action or a custody case, it’s important to know what types of information and obtaining techniques are legal and how to use the surveillance to prove your important facts.

To provide insight in this area, the Allegheny County Bar Association will present the Live Webinar CLE, “The Surveillance of a Spouse,” on Monday, Nov. 14. This program has been approved for one hour of Ethics credit in Pennsylvania and also qualifies for one hour of credit under the West Virginia Rules for Mandatory Continuing Legal Education.

In this CLE, learn the do’s and don’ts of surveillance in family law matters, including an update on Pennsylvania’s wiretapping law from a leading criminal lawyer, a family law lawyer, a trial court judge and a well-known investigative/security consultant.

This is a live interactive Zoom webinar and participants will receive one hour of live CLE credit for the webinar. You will receive the link to join and the materials 24 hours in advance of the program.

Program speakers will be Phillip P. DiLucente of Phil DiLucente and Associates, LLC; The Honorable Anthony M. Mariani of the Allegheny County Court of Common Pleas Criminal Division; and Larry Forletta, Forletta Investigative Security Consultant. Moderator is Kenneth J. Horoho Jr., of Gentile, Horoho & Avalli, P.C.
